Your business at your fingertips!

Introducing MHX, a new digital experience to help you manage your business.

At M. Holland, we take plastics personally. So we're launching a new platform to deliver the information you need most—wherever and whenever you need it.

We've heard what's important to you, and designed MHX with those needs in mind. Ultimately, MHX will allow you to improve operational performance while helping us deepen our personal relationship.

The initial launch of MHX will deliver:

- Access to your order history online at any time
- Pricing approximation and weight data in one place
- Purchase order and sales order numbers
- Order tracking, including order status, facility destination, and confirmed delivery date
- Order information, such as product details, price, and weight
- Invoice information
- Certificates of Analysis
- Shared visibility with your CSR to help with communications

We're excited to unveil MHX and show you how useful it can be for your operations. And we're confident that it will help strengthen our connection even further.

For everyone at M. Holland, that's more than good business. It's personal.
